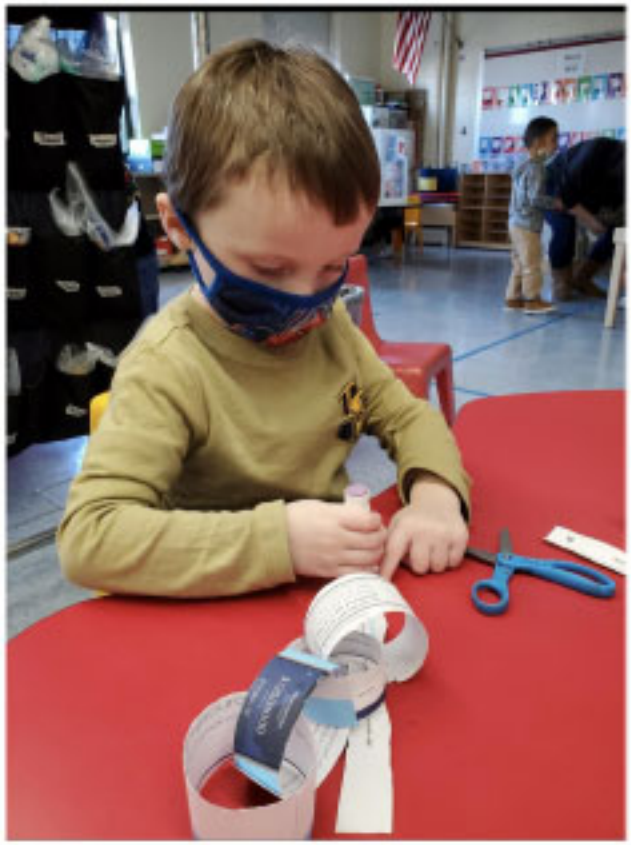
What is junk mail?

It includes unsolicited coupons, flyers, credit card applications, even magazines may be considered junk mail if you do not read them or want them.

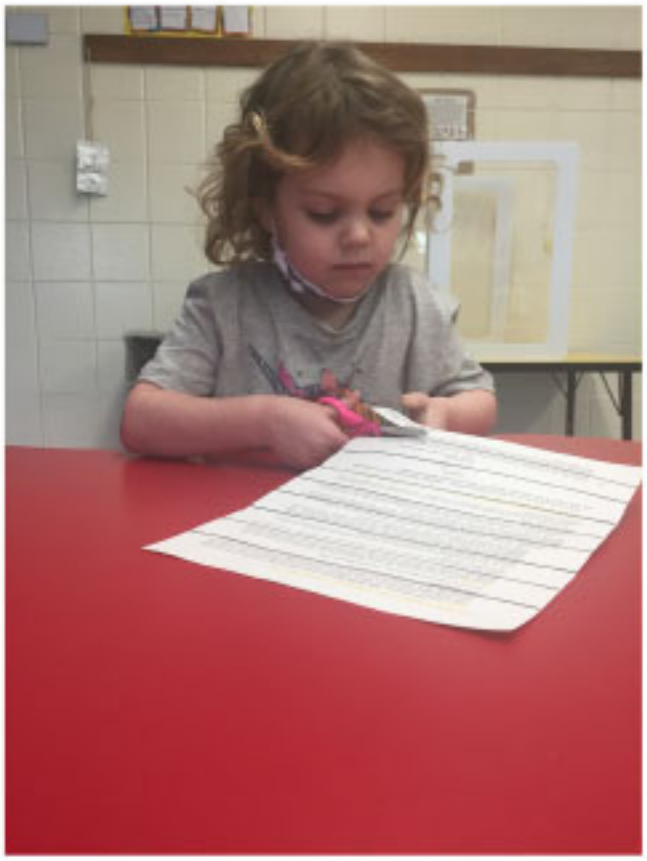
Why is junk mail a problem?

- Over 100 billion pieces of junk mail are delivered in the US each year.
- The EPA reports that 60% of all junk mail ends up in the landfill instead of being recycled.
- 33% of all mail delivered worldwide is junk mail we do not even want.

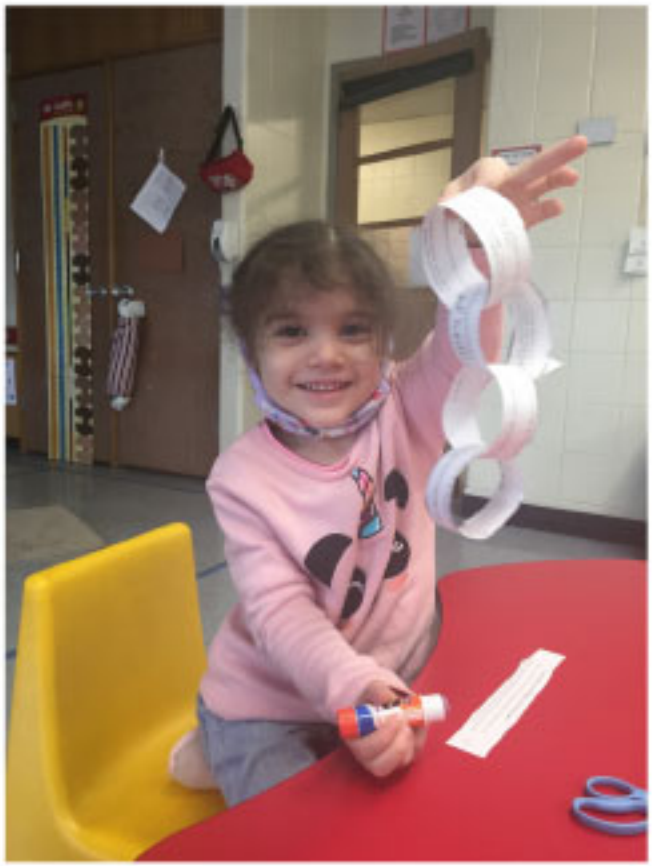
Students learned that junk mail is a problem for our planet.



Students used collected junk mail to practice fine motor skills like cutting and gluing.



Students put together the paper loops made from junk mail to make a chain.



Students put together their loops to provide a visual representation of how much paper is wasted in junk mail.
